Professor Clashes With Bank President on Local T.V.

Mark Plihcik
Archway Staff Writer

Bryant Professor and local business man Jack Keigwin appeared on WJAR Channel 10's Let's Talk Business this past Sunday.

The show, hosted by former Providence mayor Joseph Paolino, Jr. addressed the topic of the effect lowered the prime rate to 4.5%, banks should be more willing to lend to businesses.

"There are plenty of opportunities for jobs to be created. We're asking for funds to build manufacturing facilities and create jobs - to bring new companies into the state and support businesses that are already here."

But, Keigwin says, the money just isn't there. "The fact is that I don't see the availability of funds yet."

Thomas Skala, president of Fleet Bank, disagreed with Keigwin. "Those borrowers who are credit of bank lending practices on the economic health of the region.

Keigwin, a management professor who teaches an entrepreneurship course at Bryant, represented the Northern Rhode Island Chamber of Commerce on the show.

He took the position that if banks would be more willing to lend money, businesses could become healthy and jobs would be created. He argued that since the Fed has

Senior Class Announces Gift: Fitness Trail Given to Campus

Michael J. Boyd
Archway Staff Writer

A fitness trail, to be constructed on the campus grounds, was announced as the senior class gift during a "Kick-off Party" held by the senior class last Thursday evening in the Papito Dining Room.

"This [fitness trail] will be something that everyone can benefit from," remarked Intramural Coach Robert Reall during the announcement ceremony.

Reall noted that the concept of a fitness trail was not a new idea. He showed a newspaper article, dated 1981, depicting a fitness trail at Bentley. The article contained a handwritten note from then-president Dr. William T. O'Hara indicating a fitness trail was an excellent "senior class gift idea."

A fitness trail for the campus was then proposed to the administration in 1983 and turned down for financial reasons. Reall let the article and idea sit in his file drawer until this year's senior class gift committee, headed by Deena Panariello, led the search for a class gift.

It is estimated the gift will cost $5,000 which will be raised entirely through donations made by the senior class.

"If everyone here tonight would donate $19.92 [for the gift]," remarked Panariello during the announcement ceremony, "we would almost have enough."

At the ceremony, attended by over 250 seniors, both the gift and the senior class t-shirt were unveiled. The t-shirt will be on sale for $9 in the Bryant Center on February 25, 26, and 27.

To date, approximately $4,400 has been pledged by members of the senior class towards the gift. Senior Joe Culos has made a $92 pledge the night of the party.

According to Panariello, the class gift could be in place by September 1992. Groundbreaking will take place once the amount of the gift has been raised. Traditionally, senior class gifts have not been installed on campus within a year of the graduation.

In recent years, senior class gifts have included a welcome/information sign from the class of 1991 at a cost of $7,000 and a television monitor network system from the class of 1990 at a cost of $10,500. Both gifts have yet to be installed.

The most visible senior class gifts are the outdoor sculpture from the class of 1989, underwater illumination for the fountain from the class of 1988, and the stone walkway around the arch from the class of 1987.

Bryant Professor Assesses Importance of Business Ethics

Lisa Lucchesi
Archway Staff Writer

Professor William Haas sponsored a student-focused workshop on business ethics on Tuesday night. The primary focus of the workshop was to discuss the lack of ethics in the business world.

Co-sponsoring this seminar was Crystal Packer, the Student Alumni Association, and the Graduate Alumni Council.

The seminar consisted of two video vignettes on ethics in the workplace and was followed by a discussion on ethical concerns and how to deal with them. One primary reason for studying business ethics is to know how to protect your interests.

Haas hopes this seminar is the first of a series of topics which may involve those with an active interest in the ethical dimensions in their fields.

One of its main concerns was to make students aware that their ethics in college will carry over to the business world. A survey was distributed and addressed such topics as using "scoop files" to study for exams and company loyalty versus personal values.

According to Haas, "Ethics is defined as the application of reason to choices and actions concerning what is good for human beings."

Three ways of looking at, and analyzing ethical problems, are to consider what rules apply, the consequences of the actions, and how to accept responsibility for those actions.

Haas is the former president of Providence College and North Adams State College in Massachusetts. He is a graduate of Providence College and received his doctorate in philosophy from the University of Fribourg in Switzerland.

He has taught at Manuel College, Providence College, the University of Rhode Island, Perdue, and Wabash. He has taught business ethics at Bryant since January 1984.

Professor William Haas expounds on ethics Tuesday night.

International Studies Concentration Added to Curriculum

Kelly A. Cartwright
Archway Staff Writer

In the fall of 1992, Bryant will introduce an International Studies concentration as part of the new Liberal Arts program.

According to Professor Bill Hill, one of the program's coordinators, the International Studies concentration will orient students to the ever-changing world "through the promotion of international knowledge and a sensitive understanding of the interdependence of the world's political, economic, social, cultural, and ecological systems."

As an "interdisciplinary" program, the International Studies concentration will integrate three new core courses with existing electives in economics, English, political science, history, psychology, sociology and advanced foreign language study.

Students will still be required to take the usual ten business core courses.

"Students will be exposed to varied approaches taken towards critical issues of relations among diverse cultures, international historical patterns, global economic relations and social development, international politics, and large-scale environmental problems," explained Hill.

He added that such a program, "can improve students' career choices." For example, International Studies will serve as a strong basis for careers in business, law, public service, or graduate school.

The whole rationale behind the International Studies concentration is to give Bryant students more options in the undergraduate program. That way, students who come to Bryant thinking they want to pursue a business degree but change their minds, are not locked into a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.

Speak Up and Be Heard!!

In the past several weeks, there have been numerous submissions to The Archway which were not publishable. These submissions fit into two distinct categories to which all potential contributors must be aware.

As you may have already noticed, there have been quite a few "Letters to the Editor" published this semester. Many valuable and valid points have been raised in these written opinions. To an editor, there is nothing more encouraging than receiving letters from the readership. Well, actually there is one thing more encouraging: being able to print those letters.

The point of a Letter to the Editor is to express your opinion about an issue in order to inform or persuade others of your position on a given issue.

According to Archway Edict #6, "Letters to the Editor must be signed and include the writer's telephone number." However, this week alone, there were two unsigned letters submitted to The Archway.

The voices in these letters should be heard, but they can't be. Letters must be signed when submitted to The Archway to establish the writer's credibility and motivation. The Archway may withhold names from publication under certain circumstances, to protect the writer from unwarranted retaliation.

The second category that non-publishable material falls into is "Unsuitable Material." The Archway masthead, which is located directly below the editorial each week, covers this matter: "Copy considered objectionable by the Editorial Board will not be accepted."

It appears the definition of objectionable has been misunderstood. Let us clarify this. The Editorial Board, as a rule, objects to all statements that are potentially libelous. Additionally, comments which are sexually derogatory, or otherwise prejudiced, will not be tolerated in news formats.

If someone wants to make a submission, but is unsure about a phrase or idea, he or she should contact the editor to discuss the issue.

An important point to remember is that newspapers don't have to print everything they receive. Newspapers print materials which they think will inform and enlighten their readers, and will be of value to them.

Remember, The Archway opinion section is your forum to express your thoughts, ideas, and opinions. But, the rest of the paper must be confined to verifiable factual material which the readers will benefit from.

New Policy at the Comfort

To the Editor,

We are writing this letter to inform the Bryant College student body of the current ID policy at the Country Comfort. This policy has been implemented to preserve the right of 21 year olds and older to purchase alcoholic beverages. This will also help to avoid any liability for Brycol and Bryant College.

Brycol is trying to prevent the closure of the Country Comfort, and safety for its customers. Two forms of positive ID are required. The first being a license and second either Bryant ID, social security card, or another positive ID.

If you bring a visitor they must have two forms. The Country Comfort is one of the last on-campus pubs in New England. This is a privilege and requires a great deal of responsibility on the part of both the managers and the patrons of the Country Comfort.

If you have any concerns please leave a message at the Brycol house at 231-1220.

Thank You For MIKATA

I would like to take this time to thank the Bryant College Performing Arts Series for bringing us the dynamic sounds of Mikata that swept through Jankies Auditorium like wild fire on Monday night. It's a rarity that we get to experience and relish in such an uplifting display of culture within the confines of such an ultra conservative school. Not only did Mikata highlight the celebration of Black History Month, but it was a pure celebration of life! To witness Monday night's performance, was to witness a festival of unity. Although Mikata is gone, the festival of unity will hopefully continue on in everyone's lives.

Thank You,
Tara J. Reilly &

Campus Ministry Responds to Lesbian/Gay/Bisexual Concerns

To: The Editor of the Archway

We were very pleased to read in the last edition of the Archway about an issue which, for the most part, has been closeted and ignored on this campus; namely, homosexuality. In an editorial letter entitled: "Support for Homosexual Students Available" a concerned student spoke about the plight of lesbian/gay individuals on campus and the apparent lack of support that exists for them. This is also a concern for us in Campus Ministry, as we seek to reach out to serve the needs of this college community.

Campus Ministry is available to ALL members of the Bryant Family. Lesbian/gay/bisexual individuals are important members of this community. Because we would like to respond to any special needs that exist here at Bryant, Campus Ministry would like to add its support and offer its assistance to lesbian/gay/bisexual members of our community who may be seeking spiritual and/or pastoral direction.

If the lesbian/gay/bisexual members of our college family would like to get together to share their personal and interpersonal needs, goals, struggles, etc., Campus Ministry would be happy to help organize a support group to facilitate mutual understanding and growth. Interested persons are invited to call Father Doug Spina at ext. 6289, Reverend Gail Helgeson at ext. 6119, or Rabbi Lawrence Silverman at ext. 6119 for further information.

Respectfully,

Father Doug Spina

1. Archway writers' meetings take place at 4:30 pm on Mondays in The Archway office. All are welcome to attend.

2. Editorial board meetings are held on Thursday nights at 5:30 in the Meeting Room 3 of the Bryant Center.

3. All submissions must be received by 4:00 p.m. on the Tuesday before publication. Copy received after this may or may not be printed, depending on space limitations. Archway Office Hours are 2:00 - 4:00 p.m., Mondays and Tuesdays.

4. All written material must be saved on a 3.5" disk in an acceptable format and include the writer's name and telephone number. Contact The Archway office for compatible formats. The Archway is not responsible for

5. Advertisements are due no later than midnight on the Monday before publication. Rate sheets can be obtained by calling The Archway Ad Department at 232-6028.

6. Letters to the Editor must be signed and include the writer's telephone number. Names may be withheld upon request.

Saturdays: Pick-Ups Only

Dear Editor,

Last Saturday I went to the post office to mail a couple of oversized letters and get a money order to pay my Visa bill. When I got there, they said that they only do pick-ups on Saturdays. Excuse me, last time I checked a regular post office, which they claim to be, is more than a pick-up window on Saturday. I know that's their rule but when I'm home and need stamps or a money order from the post office, even on Saturday, they have the services I need.

I had important stuff in the envelopes, I had my FAF and my Citibank Visa bill. This stuff had to be mailed immediately, I needed the FAF to see if I can get money to help me pay this tuition. Another stupid reason I went there was to pay my Visa bill, so they don't repossess the stuff I bought.

I thought the post office was there for our convenience. People still mail oversized letters and pay bills on Saturday. I could see them not doing money orders, they might have to actually turn a machine on, but not putting postage on my letters, that's ridiculous. What happened?

Did the Smithfield post office come and take their stamps away for the weekend, "You can't have those, you might sell them." I think not. The campus postmaster general, or whoever is in charge, should rethink this policy. If the mail is sent on Saturdays why can't you go to the post office and mail something?

Sincerely,
Angelo Corradino

Faculty Contract Negotiations

The end of the current contract between the Faculty and the College is rapidly approaching. In Article I, Section 1a the contract acknowledges that "The College recognizes the Federation as the exclusive representative of all full-time faculty members, including department chairs, excluding all other employees." This recognition has had and will continue to have a profound effect on the faculty at Bryant College. However, the reality is that this effect has significant spillover consequences for the rest of the Bryant community. This is particularly true with regard to the students of Bryant College.

I suspect that most students would expect that a contract between the College and the Faculty would deal exclusively with financial matters. This is not the case for Bryant's contract. It would be hypocritical of me to imply that the financial aspects of the contract are not important to both the Faculty and the Administration of Bryant. They certainly are! On the other hand, they are frequently not the most important aspects of the contract. Certainly they are not the most important aspects to the students - nor to the long term viability of our institution.

Over the next several months you are likely to hear rumors and tidbits concerning the progress of the negotiations toward a new contract. I wish to take this opportunity to assure you that the focal point of the positions taken by the Faculty negotiating team will be to make Bryant the BEST it can be for the people it is here to serve. In our opinion, that group is primarily the student body, both present and future. Similarly, we are confident that the Administration is working toward the same goal with the same clientele in mind.

Our expectation is that negotiations will proceed in a reasonable manner. Financial matters notwithstanding, we expect an amiable conclusion to the negotiating process. To many of us Bryant is our second home. It is an interesting and an exciting place to be. As George Watson (in the Wilson Quarterly) put it, "That lies at the heart of the vogue for higher education, which cannot chiefly reflect a longing for riches, since plumbers and mechanics can often be paid more than college graduates, not to mention their professors."

Leo P. Mahoney,
Bryant Faculty Federation President

closely examine loan applications. Skala also claimed that tighter federal regulations are not completely to blame for the tighter practices.

"The problems [we have faced] are not driven solely by the regulations; we made number of bad loans [in the 1980s]," said Skala.

Skala went on to say that loans are being made by Fleet to businesses. This prompted Keigwin to respond "I'm glad Tom [Skala] economy out of the recession for two reasons.

"First, [the lower rate] is helping the residential market considerably," he said.

Home owners are able to refinance their mortgages as interest rates come down, increasing disposable income. This in turn increases sales in home-related industries such as draperies and furniture, Keigwin said.

Professor Jack Keigwin (left) and Fleet Bank president Thomas Skala on WJAR's "Let's Talk Business" Sunday

has made this public statement. Now I'm going to tell my colleagues that when they have problems getting a loan from their local loan officer, that they can call Tom Skala."

That kind of tension between Keigwin and Skala was evident throughout the show, which also featured Wayne Forrest of the Providence Business News and Linwood Erikson of G.W. Dall Company as guests.

Erikson's business was recently bought by Purolator and moved to North Carolina, resulting in the loss of 55 jobs in Rhode Island.

Keigwin noted that the banks' unwillingness to lend money often results in the delay of new job creation or the loss of jobs, as was the case with G.W. Dall.

Skala replied that low consumer confidence is curbing spending, which increases pressures on manufacturers.

Banks don't want to lend money to these businesses, even if they have a large order backlog from established customers, unless they can "move merchandise out the front door at a profit," he said.

Despite the banks' tight guard on their money, Keigwin said, the Fed's policy of lowering the prime rate will ultimately pull the Second, and more importantly, he said, "Banks are going to get extraordinarily healthy." This is because of the gap between the prime rate and the rate banks charge on loans.

"The spread between their [the banks'] cost of money and the rate that they lend at has never been larger in the last 30 years," Keigwin said.

He also noted that banks are bringing in $32 billion on refinancing charges alone.

Skala did not disagree that banks will get healthy, but, he said, "there is no quick fix. We got ourselves into this mess over a long period, and it's going to take a long period to come out of it."

Skala predicted a two or three year period before a real recovery in real estate occurs.

Keigwin is optimistic about an economic upturn.

"We have to start feeling positive about ourselves...Once they [the banks] get healthy, their position on the economy will change," said Keigwin.

And that will result in loosening lending restrictions, pumping money into the economy and creating jobs in manufacturing and construction.

Students for a Safer Campus

Student Arrested

On February 8, at 2:12am, a Public Safety Officer was dispatched to Residence Hall 1. When Public Safety arrived, a male was being held down on the floor by two other residents. The detained student had apparently become very agitated with some of his guests, had assaulted a Resident Assistant and was acting psychotic. The responding officer called for Smithfield Police and the Resident Director (RD) on duty. The RD and both Smithfield and North Smithfield Police responded. The student was taken into custody and later transported to a nearby hospital for observation. He was arraigned the following morning and had been prohibited from returning to campus, pending the results of a medical evaluation.

Assault

At approximately 1:00am, on February 8, a male student was walking up a flight of stairs in Residence Hall 16, when he met another male student coming down. The first student claimed that the second called him by name, then punched him in the right eye. A short fight following was broken up by fellow students.

The assaulted student also claimed that he does not know the suspect well and does not know what provoked the assault. He has decided not to press charges with Smithfield Police at this time.

Harassment/Assault

Public Safety was requested to Residence Hall 4, for an incident of harassment. When Public Safety arrived at 2:30am on February 9, a male student claimed that he had been harassed and assaulted earlier, giving a detailed description of the suspect.

The student stated that he was sitting in his suite with some friends when someone knocked on the door. Before they could open it, a male entered and began verbally harassing the group. According to the student, the intruder then began pushing and shoving him. This student also stated that he and two of his friends were able to hold back the intruder, forcing him out into the hall.

The group claimed that the intruder was aggressive-punching, fighting, and yelling the entire time. The suspect left the building shortly after, witnessed by two Resident Assistants.

Approximately ten to fifteen minutes later, the suite received a phone call. The caller, who did not identify himself, made reference to the incident, threatening the students, and stating that he would return.

Child Choir Highlights Gospel Jubilee

Julia Arouchon
Archway Staff Writer

Eight different choirs performed a Gospel Jubilee before a capacity crowd last Friday night in the Janikies Auditorium as part of Bryant's celebration of Black History month.

Ernest Cox and Patricia Kelley organized the choirs from Providence and Boston.

Performances ranged from invigorating songs that the audience clapped and sang along with some uplifting ballads. Many sang along to the opening "This Little Light of Mine."

A big hit of the evening was The Little Wonders, a group of inner city kids from Boston. The performers were the third generation of Little Wonders ranging in ages from two to thirteen. The program gives them an alternative and an opportunity to learn the bible through song.

Laticia Russell, Mistress of Ceremonies for the evening, said the Jubilee was a great success and one of the best performances for Black History Month.

According to Russell, the Gospel Jubilee was an important and needed aspect to the Black History Month. "The church is one of the support groups for the African Americans and the music revitalizes people's spirits," said Russell.

"Hopefully the Gospel Jubilee will continue to be an annual event," said Russell.

When The Professor Says "No More Time"

Are you worried about the assignment that requires library research in scholarly journals? Do you understand why

Off The Shelf

by Constance Cameron,
Hodgson Memorial Library staff

Time magazine doesn't qualify? Here are a few tips for ensuring that the articles you have found for your assignment meet the professor's scholarly criteria.

BOOKS AS SOURCES. Many students may not realize that a good approach to any research on an issue can be found in reference books.

Your library has a good array of standard handbooks and encyclopedias that explain a topic and offer selected references to landmark studies published in journals and books.

A few moments spent with a key source on your subject will help you sort out important scholarly contributions made by significant authors. Many times an earlier authority can be used as a search term in the computerized databases to discover if his/her theories are being used by a more recent scholar.

Examples of these standard works include International Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences (shelved Stack #2 Ref H 40 A2 15), International Encyclopedia of Higher Education (shelved Stack #5 Ref LB 15 I 57), The New Palgrave: a Dictionary of Economics (shelved Stack #2 Ref HB 61 .N49 1987).

Some interesting and more unusual titles include Dictionary of the History of Ideas (shelved Stack #1 CB 5 D52), The Oxford Companion to the Mind (shelved Stack #1 Ref BF 31 .094 1987), and the Encyclopedia of BioEthics (shelved Stack #7 Ref QH 332 E52). Our more recent titles include The Guide to American Law (shelved Stack #5 Ref KF 156 .G77), Encyclopedia of Sociology (shelved Stack #4 Ref HM 17 .E5 1991), and Encyclopedia of Crime and Justice (shelved Stack #4 Ref HV 6017 .E52).

ELECTRONIC REFERENCE SOURCES. Your professor may already have discussed the most recent database being evaluated by the library, Social Sciences Index/Fulltext (located next to the reference desk) guarantee success because the editors' intent is to provide access to scholarly research.

You may freely enter a search word and retrieve references to articles if the word appears anywhere in the record. Next you should note the index terms assigned by the editors to this article. After discovering these terms you can continue your research in the hard copy index from 1988 to 1988.

Since not all of you attended last fall's library technology seminars, I would like to share a simple tip for searching ABINform, the database for business research. Simply combine the search set for your topic with the code listed as 9130, i. e. "CD(9130)."

This step will narrow your topic to journal articles representing theoretical research. An added advantage will be the retrieval of articles that will fan out your search because they all contain "References" or the bibliographies used by scholars.

VERIFICATION. Let's suppose you have already searched your topic on the ProQuest network in the database named Periodicals Abstracts Online. You can see that this database has a mix of over 500 popular and scholarly journals. Again there are reference books that can verify scholarly journals in different subject disciplines.

Two examples of these reference books are Cabell's Directory of Publishing Opportunities in Business and Economics, and the Author's Guide to Journals in the Behavioral Sciences. In addition the comprehensive Ulrich's International Periodicals Directory contains a separate section for "refereed" scholarly journals.

Good luck and here's to your success finding literature with more depth!

R.I. Deputy Attorney General Speaks on Ethics

Mark Plihcik
Archway Staff Writer

Eggs and ethics were the subject of the hour at yesterday's first Bryant College Breakfast Series. Rhode Island Deputy Attorney General Walter Gorman spoke on the topic of ethics in Rhode Island before a group of 25 people yesterday at the Holiday Inn in downtown Providence.

Gorman commented that as deputy attorney general, his experience with ethics was limited to those violations that break the law in some way.

He noted that although Rhode Island is recognized for its corruption level, it is a problem all across the country. "The image we have for Rhode Island is that it is a haven for rogues and scoundrels," Gorman said.

However, he said, other states are just as vulnerable to ethics problems. Gorman cited a recent report in the Washington Post detailing corruption charges brought against nine Arizona legislators and a bank fraud investigation of that state's governor.

Part of the reason why Rhode Island has had so much recognition for its corruption levels, Gorman says, is the state's size. "When something occurs [in the state] everybody knows about it - word travels fast."

He compared a hypothetical violation in Rhode Island to a similar one in New York. "If someone on [the city council] commits a violation in New York, maybe 100,000 people will find out about it, but that's only 2% [of the population]," he said.

The media, Gorman noted, is also responsible for much of the state's notoriety. "The [Providence] Journal and the other media do a good job in digging things out and reporting - but controversy sells newspapers."

Gorman also said that it is difficult to place the blame for the state of ethics in Rhode Island on anyone agency or entity. He noted bankers, stockbrokers, legislators, contractors, and judges as possible sources of corruption. The ethical standards on any given community, he continued, will be determined "by how officials respond to the trust placed in them [by the public]."

However, he said, "a state official can only act corruptly if someone is willing to pay him." Gorman called for the citizens of the state to "join in the effort to raise the ethical standard." He asked the rhetorical question "Why do people look away [when an ethical violation occurs?]"

Gorman noted that the attorney general's office has a huge backlog of corruption cases to investigate and indict. "If our office received no new information, we'd have enough leads to keep five or six lawyers and 20 investigators busy for two years."

The process of proving a corruption case is often the cause of problems such as this, he said. The attorney general will not bring an indictment unless they are fairly certain of conviction, Gorman stated.

Another problem with the system, he continued, is that once an indictment is issued, the grand jury process ends. Which means the main tool the attorney general uses to investigate and gather information is lost. So they will often prolong the time period prior to indictment in order to get the last crucial documents necessary to convict, Gorman concluded.

Studies Committee made up of: Prof. Bill Hill (Political Science); Prof. Bill Graves (Foreign Languages); Prof. Jim Estey (History); and Prof. Sam Mirmirani (Economics).

Beginning with this semester's pre-registration for fall 1992 courses, current freshman and sophomores will be able to select International Studies as a major concentration.

Students who are interested and would like to learn more about what this new concentration will offer to students, should attend one of two Orientation Sessions scheduled for: Wednesday, February 26th from 3:30-4:30pm in Room 243 and Thursday, February 27th from 3:30-4:30pm in Room 243.

Hill added that anyone unable to attend either of these sessions "can contact any member of the IS Committee (listed above) to learn more about this new concentration."

New Health Staffer to Start Alcohol Education Program

Andrew B. Hershenow
Archway Staff Writer

On January 22, 1992, Bryant College added Doris Horridge to the Health Services staff. Her role as the Health Educator entails prevention of drug use and ultimately teaching students to become more responsible while drinking.

In her role as drug and alcohol abuse prevention coordinator, Horridge will be establishing a comprehensive program on campus which networks with, and enhances, community efforts on this issue.

The Bryant Alcohol Peer Educators (APES) is a new program initiated by Horridge to instill a new environment at Bryant College. Its purpose is to clear up misconceptions about alcohol, peer pressure, and expectations while drinking.

"Many freshmen feel that upperclassmen put a pressure on them to drink, but in fact there is simply a fear to fit in," said Horridge.

She will also begin to integrate all aspects of Bryant's current health education program into this new project assignment since many health problems on campus directly result from alcohol and other drug use. For example, there is a propensity for sexually transmitted diseases while intoxicated.

Other ailments attributed to high levels of drinking are: hypertension, poor nutrition, and depression. Therefore, there is an urgent need for activities and programs to give students more knowledge about this subject. There may also be internships and volunteer programs provided to better distribute this knowledge among college students and younger teenagers.

While her principal goal is education of the dangers of drinking and the use of other drugs, Horridge also hopes to "find a way to manage the culture shock of becoming a college student and, eventually, an independent adult."

Is the New Smoking Policy Working?

by Dustin Goldstein

As of January 1, 1992, Bryant College implemented a new restrictive smoking policy that stated that "smoking is prohibited except in designated areas."

The college effectively banned smoking in all areas with the exception of designated smoking areas. Designated areas include selected tables in South Dining Room and Salmanson Dining Hall; the lower lounge of the Koffler Center; the enclosed smoking area in the library; the faculty lounge; and the main floor social lounges in Halls 14, 15, and 16.

The new college policy resulted partly because of a new RI state law on smoking in public areas, 23-20.6.2.

Many students were welcomed back from break with "Please Observe our No-Smoking Policy" signs posted all over campus buildings where smoking was prohibited.

Almost one month after the return from winter break, how did students, smokers and non-smokers, feel about the new policy?

J.J. Sgandurra, a freshman smoker, stated that he feels the smoking policy is "a good, positive thing." He goes on to state that "despite the fact that I'm a smoker, I do feel and realize that breathing in other people's second-hand smoke is very unhealthy."

Indeed so. In May, 1990, the EPA issued a report that put second-hand smoke on the "Group A" human carcinogen list, right along with the cancer-causer asbestos. It is estimated that 53,000 preventable deaths a year occur due to second hand smoke.

Another freshman non-smoker, Andrew B. Hershenow, said that "because second hand smoke is so dangerous, no one has the right to force anyone else to breathe it. There should be a more stringent policy on students that persist in smoking in restricted areas."

Another unidentified student even suggested that someone should be enforcing the policy by implementing a system similar to the citation system that the Public Safety department currently uses to cite illegally parked cars.

Are students really being as courteous as possible with regard to smoking habits since the implement of the new policy?

It would appear that smoking has indeed ceased in most corridors of the Unistructure, Koffler Center, and the Bryant Center. There has been more of a problem controlling smoking in the corridors of halls 14, 15, and 16 where smoking is explicitly prohibited.

This echoed the comments of many students like freshman Rhonda Boeckle, who commented, "If it's enforced, it's definitely a good idea. However, it's useless to anyone unless it is solidly enforced in some manner."

In any case, the rights and health of the non-smoker are of utmost importance when enforcing the college policy on smoking in restricted areas.

The First (and probably last) Annual Flick Awards

We are now just a little less than a week away from that great harbinger of the United States political climate, a day of remembrance, and a good excuse to cancel classes: Washington's birthday, named after The United States' first president George Washington Birthday.

Oops, my mistake. How could a president's birthday be responsible for determining the political climate of an entire nation? What I meant to say is we are just a little less than a week away from the New Hampshire primary. Which means, across the nation, slews of journalists are diligently working at analyzing the candidates, their positions on the issues, how many beauty queens they are sleeping with, etc.

I was going to do the same thing as those other journalists this week when it occurred to me that doing so would involve actually researching my column, and God only knows what would happen then. I might tell the truth or something. What I've done, in the interest of time and writing a long enough column so that I can go back to bed, is prepare the First (and probably last) Annual Flick Awards for Political Hopelessness.

The "Vision Thing" Award for Lost Promises: This goes to President George Herbert Walker "Biff" Bush. If you recall, in 1988 Bush claimed, among other things, to be the education president. And his policies are working like a well oiled machine, as shown by the results of a recent test, which I just made up, of 10,000 high school seniors. On this exam, 63% of the respondents reported that Dan Quayle was "a kind of flightless waterfowl," and 79% identified England as "a small moon of Jupiter."

The "I've Answered All Your Stupid Questions, so SHUT UP!" Award: This has to go to Bill Clinton. When that final bastion of journalistic integrity, the Star, reported that Clinton and Jennifer Flowers had an affair, opinion polls showed that 99% of breathing Americans at the time thought it

Off the Cuff

Mark Plihcik
Archway Staff Writer

was a crock. This led to the surprise announcements by Gary Hart that he would enter the race for the democratic nomination and that he has had more affairs than Wilt Chamberlain. Said Hart "Where were you people four years ago, dammit!"

Meanwhile, Clinton and his wife showed remarkable patience with the media, and the media responded by trying to uncover more of Clinton's affairs. This led to the surprise announcement by Hart that he had never had any affairs with anyone, especially former beauty queens, and that he was withdrawing from the race for the democratic nomination. (Just as an aside, here, Clinton has answered everybody's questions. His wife has answered everybody's questions. The only person claiming Clinton actually had an affair is Flowers herself, and I'd say that I had an affair with Bill Clinton for the kind of money she got out of the story!)

The "If Elected, I Promise to Not Know a Thing About World Trade" Award: Republican Pat Buchanan gets the nod here. Never known for being too smart with money, Buchanan has promised to shut the door on all imports to protect American jobs. This idea has about as much merit as David Duke's "Honk if you Love Bed Sheets" bumper stickers (see below). Of course as Bush's only real competition for the Republican nomination (and when I say competition, I mean in the same sense that Jamaica is "competing" in Olympic bobsledding), it is Buchanan's job to go around kissing babies and milking cows in New Hampshire. He doesn't have to know anything about foreign policy because he won't be in the White House. Why would he want to? He'd be taking a pay cut from his 700 Club job.

The Niftiest T.V. Campaign Commercial Award: We have two winners here, Tom Harkin of Iowa and Bob Kerry of Nebraska. These men are noted mostly for their support of national health care and their television commercials. Both men are featured in slick looking T.V. spots in which a camera, probably suspended from a crop dusting airplane, zooms in at high speeds on the candidate. The camera gets closer and closer until it finally strikes the candidate square in his surprise stricken face, rendering him unconscious. Then a nifty, creative slogan such as "Tom Harkin: He won't raise corn taxes," or "Bob Kerry: He appeals to the farmer in all of us," is flashed on the screen, and we viewers are so inspired by the sheer political genius of their message that we all rush to the refrigerator and get another beer. At least I do.

The "You gotta be kidding me!" Award: David Duke, hands down. The president of the Sheet of the Month Club is a prejudiced, Nazi cretin, and I don't care how many times he's had plastic surgery, he doesn't deserve to be president, or for that matter a member of the human race. Period.

The "If Elected, I Will Change My Name" Award: Paul Tsongas definitely gets this one. Ever since he announced his intentions to seek the democratic nomination several minutes after President Bush's Inaugural address, journalists have been coming up with new ways of misspelling and mispronouncing his name. Of course, I can sympathize with ol' Paul. How many of you can look at my name and pronounce it correctly, let alone be able to reproduce it without looking? Put your hand down, that was a rhetorical question!

I hope this guide to our leader hopefuls will prove helpful to you as you try to determine who holds views closest to yours. Of course, if you were looking for any real information about the candidates, my advice would be to go pick up a reputable paper, such as the Star.

St. Valentine's Message Of Love

Chaplain's Corner

by Father Doug Spina
Catholic Chaplain

in both life and death.

Tomorrow and each day of our lives we can recommit our lives, our hearts, to the power of love. It is a power which entails joy and sorrow, triumph and failure, growth, mutuality, communication, dialogue, compassion, and forgiveness. It leaves no room for jealousy, envy, or deceit.

As St. Paul writes in his First Letter to the Corinthians:

"Love is patient, love is kind. It is not conceited or proud. It is not ill-mannered or selfish or irritable. Love does not keep a record of wrongs... Love never ends." (1 Cor 13)

On February 14th, remember the message and the example of a third century priest named Valentine. If you do, the romance, the passion, the intimacy, the dinners, the flowers, the candy, the cards, and paper hearts will say: YOU'RE SPECIAL! I LOVE YOU! WE ARE GOD'S GIFT TO EACH OTHER! BE MY VALENTINE!!!!

What's Going On:

Catholic Mass: Every Sunday at 12:00 noon and 8:00 pm Rooms 2A & 2B, the Bryant Center Daily at 12:05 pm in the Bryant Center Chapel.

Newman Club: Open meeting on February 18, 1992 at 7:00 pm in the Rotunda. Bring a friend.

Intercollegial Retreat: The week-end of February 21-23. At the Christian Brothers Center, Narragansett, RI. For details call Fr. Doug at 232-6289.

Confirmation Class: February 23, 1992, at 5:30 pm in the Chaplain's Residence, dorm 6.

Ash Wednesday: March 4, 1992. Schedule of Masses and distribution of blessed ashes to be announced.

Sexually Transmitted Diseases:

Prevention and Treatment

We are currently experiencing an increase in the number of cases of sexually transmitted diseases (STDs). Unlike many "epidemics," this trend can not only be reversed, but can ultimately be prevented if each of us takes personal responsibility for our sexual health and conduct.

Syphilis: Left untreated, syphilis can lead to serious health problems later in life including heart disease, seizures, visual and other sensory problems, and occasionally death. Fortunately, antibiotics can cure syphilis when it is recognized early. The first sign of syphilis is the chancre, a usually painless, ulcer on the skin genitals, anus, or mouth that has a "punched out" appearance. A blood test called the VDRL usually confirms the diagnosis.

Gonorrhea: Gonorrhea is caused by a bacterium that lives on the mucous membranes of the mouth, throat, rectum, urinary tract, and cervix. In men, the primary symptom is pain and burning upon urination with a pus-like discharge appearing 2 - 10 days after exposure. In women, gonorrhea is a common cause of pelvic inflammatory disease (PID), which can result in infertility and sterility. Not everyone infected shows symptoms, however. Gonorrhea is diagnosed by laboratory culture and is treated with antibiotics.

Chlamydia: This STD has recently come to light as a cause of PID in women, and of "non-specific urethritis" in men. The symptoms of chlamydia are usually pain or burning upon urination and itching of the urethra. It is difficult to culture the chlamydia organism, so diagnosis is made by ruling out other possible causes. Special antibiotics (with both partners receiving treatment to prevent reinfection) are used to treat chlamydia.

Herpes: Herpes is caused by one of two viruses that enters the body through the thin skin of the genitals, anus, mouth, or lips, and takes up residence inside nerve cells. Breakouts occur when the nervous system is stimulated (by local injury, stress, cold weather, etc.) or when the immune system is suppressed (sunburn, a cold, flu, etc.) Herpes "cold sores" appear on the skin where the infection first occurred but can spread to adjacent areas. The drug acyclovir can greatly reduce the duration and frequency of herpes outbreaks. Persons with active herpes lesions can infect others, however, so they should not have sex until the skin has completely healed.

AIDS: AIDS is the latest and most dangerous STD. It is caused by the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), which cripples the immune system, leaving a person highly susceptible to infections and certain kinds of cancer. Death usually occurs within months or years after the diagnosis. The virus is transmitted by intimate, unprotected, sexual intercourse or the sharing of needles. Anyone with an active sex life, multiple partners, or history of IV drug use, may be at risk for exposure to HIV. Short of abstinence, condoms with a spermicide offer the best protection.

Bryant Family Comes Together to Make Winter Weekend Successful

Kelly A. Cartwright
Archway Staff Writer

"For the Sake of Unity" proved to be an appropriate theme for Winter Weekend 1992.

According to Student Programming Board Vice President and Weekend Coordinator John Morrison, "The Bryant 'family' came together to celebrate love, friendship, and diversity."

"It was excellent! I was very pleased with the crowds," Morrison remarked.

"Friday's events were fabulous," Morrison noted. The person who ran the photomug booth was booked for three hours, but "sold out" after an hour and a half. Also, the tarot card reader had a continuous line at her booth.

The afternoon's events were followed by another huge success. The Friday Night Live Comedy show had an unusually high attendance of 115 people. Morrison said it was the highest Friday night event turnout he's seen in his year's here.

The weekend's major event, the Valentine's Semi-Formal, was the biggest success of all. The turn out at the Holiday Inn in Providence for the event was just ten people shy of a sell-out.

"Things went smoothly," Morrison said. "It was great to see so many different faces and everyone having fun."

Several students said that the formal was more fun than all of their proms put together.

Another student added, "The highlight of the evening was when Michael Yaffe, SPB's president, fulfilled his lifelong dream of leading a 'party train' to the tune of 'YMCA'."

Morrison noted that the video disc jockey, Turning Circles, was another highlight of the evening.

Winter Weekend was concluded on Sunday afternoon with a trip to Cranston Veterans Memorial Ice Rink for indoor ice skating. The program was well attended by about 40 people.

"I would like to formally thank Multicultural Student Union, the Office of Student Activities, WAVE, and the Student Senate for their support and guidance throughout the planning process to help make the events very successful," Morrison said.

He added that because of the success of all of the weekend's programs, "SPB hopes Winter Weekend is here to stay and the support continues to grow."

Sexual Harassment in the Workplace, Part II: The Employer and the Law

Sexual harassment has become one of the dominant management issues of our times. To make sure you're ready to deal with

Career Saavy

by Barbara Gregory, Career Services

it, you must first understand what it is. Sexual Harassment is defined as "unwelcome behavior of a sexual nature or with sexual overtones." It takes two legal shapes: Quid pro quo or hostile environment. These legal types will be discussed on Wednesday, February 19, 6 pm in the Janikies Auditorium.

Human Resource professionals and attorneys will discuss their responsibilities and concerns regarding sexual harassment in the workplace.

Dave Zito, Personnel Director, AT Cross and Patricia Orr, Personnel Association of Rhode Island will address the issue from a company's perspective. Jennifer Wood, Attorney, Hardy & Wood Attorneys-at-Law and Robert Craven, Assistant District Attorney, RI Attorney General's Office will discuss the issue from the law's viewpoint.

Sexual Harassment in the Workplace, Part I: A Victim's Story was presented last November to a standing room only audience. Part II will continue to discuss sexual harassment with focus on management and legal responsibilities. The program will again include Angela Fusco '90 who initiated the program with her story and Dr. Frank Bingham, who serves as educational advisor to the National Association of Purchasing Managers.

Dr. Elaine Notorantonio and Dr. Charles Quigley will moderate the panel discussion. The program is being coordinated by Barbara Gregory, Career Services and Rosanne Dana, Counseling Services.

After attending the program, you will have a better understanding of the sexual harassment concerns in the workplace and knowledge of what your responsibilities as managers will be, and also what legal resources are available to you if you become a victim or are accused of sexual harassment.

From Out of the Ceiling

Aziz N. Meruani
Archway Staff Writer

Last Wednesday was not exactly a normal day for me.

Only the morning started out as usual with breakfast at 7:30 am followed by a double Accounting class, Sociology, and CIS. After all the classes came more work—laying out the pages of The Archway.

Everything was going well at The Archway, so I decided to take a short break. The break was longer than I expected, however, and not at all relaxing.

I was in the men's locker room when I heard the door open and close. I thought nothing of it until I tried to open the door and I found that it was locked!

Apparently, Public Safety had come by on their nightly door locking spree and locked me in. "Aren't they supposed to check if anyone is in the locker room before they lock the door?" I asked myself. Regardless of the answer, I had to get out.

I pounded on the door hoping that someone would hear me. It was a futile effort. After a few minutes I realized that whoever locked the door was not coming back, and no one else would be able to get to the locker room since all the hallway doors were locked, too.

"What would MacGyver do if he were in my shoes?" I wondered. When I looked up the answer hit me like the roof was coming down (excuse the pun).

I climbed up on the lockers and popped a ceiling tile out of the way. After finding a sturdy place, I hoisted myself up into the ceiling. Once I was up on the wall between the locker room and the hall, I moved another ceiling tile from above the hallway.

I was scared just looking down from my ceiling perch. It was a good ten feet to the floor.

I yelled for help, but there was no one around to hear me. Finally I gathered up enough courage to slide down the wall.

Now that I was on solid ground in the hallway, all I had to worry about was getting back to The Archway office. Luckily the dead bolt on the hallway doors was on my side of the door.

Once I got back to the office, I yelled a few obscenities appropriate for the circumstances and asked aloud why Public Safety even locks the locker rooms. The doors into the building are locked, the doors in the hallways are locked, what more do they want?

I gave Public Safety a call to find the answer. The officer who took my call told me that according to lockup procedure, the officers are supposed to check for people before locking an area.

The officer asked me how I managed to get out. When I told him that I made my way through the ceiling, he had the nerve to ask if I put the ceiling tiles back into place!

(Public Safety even suggested that this would make a good column in The Archway!)

I hope that if they ever finish laughing over this event, Public Safety will start following their own procedures so that no one else will be unfortunate enough to get locked in a bathroom.

Well, until my next adventure...take some advice: make sure someone else knows where you are in the MAC!

The author climbs from the ceiling after escaping from the locker room via the venting system.

The Tale of the Original

Cindy Gale
Archway Staff Writer

Everyone thinks Valentine's Day is the day of the year when friends and lovers express affection for one another through cards, candy, flowers, or whatever other means the imagination can find.

Although it is celebrated every year on February 14th, most people don't know how or why it originated.

St. Valentine, after whom the day is named, really had nothing to do with the revelry and festivities of the day. Valentine was a Roman priest who was martyred on February 14 A.D. 269.

He was beaten and beheaded by the Emperor Claudius II for refusing to give up Christianity. His remains, it is said, are now preserved in the Church of St. Praxedes in Rome, Italy.

Before he died, he was said to have been in jail, and while there, cured the jailer's daughter of blindness.

He supposedly left a farewell note for the girl and signed it "From your Valentine." It is concluded this is where love letters began, and you could say the rest is history.

During St. Valentine's lifetime, it was a common practice for bachelors and maidens to get together in February for social festivities.

They would write their names on pieces of paper, roll them up, and put them in a pile.

The bachelors would choose a paper with a woman's name and a woman would choose a man's name. This way, each person would have two valentines; but the maidens usually stayed with the bachelor who chose them.

This ceremony was performed hoping the outcome would be love.

But what is this thing called love people were trying to find and the holiday is now based upon? Just mentioning the word love brings different thoughts to Attention Bryant women! If you think that cute guy in physics class or even the hunk you meet at Stix might be the one for you, don't wait too long by the phone.

A recent study of Bryant Students indicates it is likely he is waiting for the phone to ring.

A statistics class late this fall posed these questions to undergraduates: How do women feel about asking a man for the first date? How do men feel about being asked? The results were very enlightening.

The study found that 90 percent of men surveyed welcome the opportunity to be asked for a first date. Just nine percent were unsure. The remaining one percent was the result of statistical rounding off.

This means is every Bryant man surveyed would enjoy being the ask-ee rather than the ask-er.

However, Bryant men are going to have to wait a little longer for the phone call from a charming female.

Valentine With Love

expressed in different ways, but they are feelings we all experience.

You love everything around you in some way, which makes some things more special to you than others.

Love is something that is with you throughout your entire life. It's something you never lose, but there is always room for more of it.

Valentine's Day has traditionally become the day to celebrate this love, whatever type it may be. Whether you call your best friend just to say hello, or give that someone special in your life something you made only for them, this is the day to express your true feelings.

Today it is customary to send a card along with flowers or candy, hoping your affections will be reciprocated.

There are post offices in certain parts of the country where people send their mail to be postmarked to add a special touch to their Valentine.

Such places include Loveland, Colorado; Love, Mississippi; Darling, Pennsylvania; Romance, Arkansas; Eros, Louisiana and Kissimmee, Florida.

People who find their "true loves" on February 14th owe thanks to St. Valentine for sending the first ever Valentine love letter.

everyone's mind.

No two people think, or feel, the same way about love.

Love means different things to everyone. It all depends on the way you were brought up and our success with it.

There are many different types and degrees of love which makes it difficult to come up with a universal definition for it.

You probably don't love your dog like you love your Mom's chicken Parmesan. And I'm sure you don't love your favorite sport the same way you love your car. These different types of love are

Roles Are Changing

Bryant women appear to be a bit shy.

Just 36 percent indicated they would ask a man out on the first date. The other 36 percent said they would not ask. The remaining 28 percent were unsure.

So, depending on whether you are an optimist or a pessimist, about two-thirds of Bryant women may call the man of their dreams—or about two-thirds may not.

So, ladies if you are among the "not-sure's" or the "no-way's," this is the perfect time to rethink your position.

This year—1992—is a leap year. Tomorrow is Valentine's Day. There's even Sadie Hawkins Day on February 29, a Saturday night at that! Why not take a chance?

Get up your courage and make that call, courtesy of AT&T, Sprint, or MCI. More likely than not, a romantic candle light dinner for two is in your future.

You may also be setting a trend. If the world follows the lead Bryant women can set, the next box office hit we see may be "When Sally Met Harry" or "Dolls and Guys."

Worldbeat "Mikata" Gives World Class Performance

By Ben Purkiss
Archway Staff Writer

Bryant students rocked to the beat of Mikata on Monday night in the Janikies Auditorium.

The band blended the musical styles of African, Caribbean, Latin, Jazz, Rock, Rap and Funk. They put on a high energy show, which even had stoic Bryant students clapping and dancing in the aisles.

Mikata consists of three singers who wore bright original costumes, influenced by the African, Latin American and American cultures. The two women and one man sang with sweet, soulful sincerity. Power and emotion ooze from their beautiful voices.

The Mikata band played guitar, bass, drums, bongos, saxophone, trombone, keyboard and a variety of traditional African and Caribbean percussion instruments. Each individual musician showed great talent and the band blended the different styles and instruments with grace and electricity.

The singers bodies expressed the mood of the music with elegance and energy. Their exciting and provocative dance really got the audience pumped. Although based on tradition, their dance was brought thumpingly into the nineties with an original style, which at once projected sensuality and then vibrant sexuality. Their facial expressions also changed with the different songs.

Some of their numbers were for fun, others carried a message of racial unity. They opened with a song about freedom, freedom for all peoples around the world. The song used African and Latin beats and built in to a powerful climax. It utilized the awesome vocal power of the trio. They did another number with entirely percussion instruments. It had a salsa based rhythm which brought the audience to their feet as Janikies jumped. They did a love song for Valentines day with a sensuous sax solo which pulled at the audience's heart strings.

In the second session a change of costume took place, once again each outfit was flamboyant. This time they used more funk and rap as well as ska and reggae. There was the suggestive song "I Want To Go To Paradise" and another called "Don't Buy It". In the latter, some good advice was given, if you don't understand it don't buy it, or in other words don't be a blind sheep.

Mikata entertained and educated. One of the singers said that we should get up and change the world. We should use the positive energy inside each of us. We have the power to change it, if we don't use that power we won't have to worry about it much longer.

Mikata are a real party time band and we should definitely bring them back on campus to give others a chance to see them. Some of the comments made by Bryant students and faculty "Marvelous" Jimps Jean Louis: "the drumming was superb" Maurizio Mazzi: "Incredible energy" Annette Nerenberg and from me "go see it because it's good."

As part of Black History Month, Mikata performed their blend of music styles. Above, LaTricia Russell, a Bryant senior, is shown joining in with the celebration.

Exchange Souls for Valentine's Day

Actors from Trinity Repertory portraying the characters of Peter, Rita, and "The Old Man" in Craig Lucas' play Prelude to a Kiss

Julia Kahler
and Ben Purkiss
Archway staff writers

Prelude to a Kiss is a modern fairy tale with an unexpected twist. The play is produced by Craig Lucas and performed at Trinity Repertory Company in Providence. The story line opens with a young couple meeting at a party and engaging in the usual uncomfortable conversation that occurs in a relationship's beginnings. Peter and Rita fall in love, get married, but do not live happily ever after.

Complications occur when a strange old man arrives at the wedding and kisses Rita for good luck. During that kiss Rita and the older man exchanged souls, causing them to have each others mannerisms and attitudes.

The story focuses on the fears and aspirations of youth and old age. The characters portray both perspectives on life. As each looks through the other's eyes, they enjoy the experiences that their new bodies afford them. The old man enjoyed having a fresh start and he wanted to be the wife that he never had. Rita lived the life of a man whose life was nearly over. She enjoyed the peace of a life lived with nothing left to do.

Peter's difficulty arose when he realized that he had married a different person from the one he had fallen in love with. The old man in Rita's body was living life to the best of his ability. He tried to fulfill the needs of his new body and his new lover.

Peter is in turmoil as he sees his transformed lover dying of cancer. He is in love with the mind but not the body of his lover. He embarks on a heroic struggle to restore things to their proper order.

The play is about life, love, and death. It deals with personal issues which are at once both intimate and public. It addresses serious human problems in a comic manner. There were excellent performances by Dan Welch as Peter, Nance Williamson as Rita and Richard Kneeland as the old man. We both laughed and cried during the play. You should go see it—it's good.

Prelude to a Kiss, runs through March 8. For more details call 351-4242.

What's up? Before I recap the weekend I want to introduce our new Executive Council: Pres.- Jennifer Wadsworth, V.P.- Michelle Morelli, Fraternity Educator- Tina Gemma, Treas.- Korinne Fontaine, Sec.- Tammy Mantie, Rush - Danielle London, Social - Deanna Polizzo, Chaplain - Kristine Paquette, Admin. Assistant - Rhonda Boeckle, Panhellenic Delegate - Amy Maderich, Philanthropy - Amy Fosdick, and Chapter Prom. - Ann Picone.

Congratulations!!!! Thanks to all who supported our lollypop sale

- it was a great success!! To our pledges you are doing awesome, keep up the great work !!

Now onto the weekend events.....Friday night took off with a blast.

It was very interesting, we should form our own singing act (maybe not)!

Saturday came and so did snow and many sisters had some fun either having snowball fights, going sledding or something like that.

In awards last week: Sis - Swift, S.O.T.W. - Oscar (caesar), Space - Wissel..... Congrats to Cheryl on her new job, lots of luck! Quote of the week: Keep it Clean!

Have a Happy Valentines Day and a great weekend!! So long!

Amnesty International

by Tom Broderick

We, as Americans, take many aspects of life for granted. Freedom is one aspect which we do not have to think about. For millions of people around the world, however, freedom is something which is threatened and revoked for actions that are considered acceptable in our lifestyle. Actions such as expressing political beliefs is like signing in to the local penitentiary in some countries. Once in the penitentiary, torture, violence and even death occur. All of this for unviolently talking, writing, or acting in a way that might make the authority nervous or angry. If America was like this the 75% of the population who were not pleased with George Bush would find themselves in prison. Please do something to help. Join Amnesty International. Through fundraising and urgent action letter writing, we can make a difference. Our next meeting will be on Wednesday, Feb. 19 in Meeting Room 2A (Bryant Center) at 4:00.

BEAC

by Marlo Rosenbloom

"We have a beautiful mother, her green lap immense, her brown embrace eternal, her blue body everything we know."

-Alice Walker

Thank you to all the BEAC members who took the time out to help in the candy sale!

The last meeting was on Wednesday the 12th! Thanks also to Dr. Doug Levin and Dr. Peter Glanz for attending our meeting for a discussion on the actual state of our environment. Look in next weeks Campus Scene for the run down of this meeting.

All things are going smoothly for Earth Week. The budget was turned in to Senate on Monday. Now all we have to do is wait for the approval!

You've Just Been Cleared For Take Off.

You can get a lot more out of life when you set your sights a little higher. Which is what applying for the American Express® Card is all about. When you get the Card, it's easier to do the things you want to do. And with the student savings that come along with it, you can do even more.

Fly roundtrip on Continental for less than $100 each way.

Student Cardmembers receive four travel certificates. They can be used to fly anywhere Continental Airlines flies in the 48 contiguous United States. Two for the school year, and two for the summer.*

Depending on where you fly, each school year travel certificate is good for $129 or $189 roundtrip—and each summer travel certificate is good for $149 or $199 roundtrip.

Savings that upgrade your lifestyle.

As a student Cardmember you get more than great travel savings. You also save

Airfare examples based on destination.

Roundtrips	Your School Year Fare	Lowest Available Airfares*	Your Savings
NY-LA	$189	$428	$239
Boston-Orlando	$129	$328	$199
Chicago-NY	$129	$288	$159

money on everything from clothing to long distance phone calls. All for a $55 annual fee.

Obviously, savings like these say a lot about the value of the Card. And having the Card will say a lot about you. For one thing it says you have a handle on what you spend, so you don't have to carry over a balance. It also says you're smart enough not to pay interest charges that can really add up. So take a few minutes now to call (have your bank address and account number ready), and apply for the American Express Card.

With all that the Card offers you, not even the sky is the limit.

Get going, call 1-800-967-AMEX.

*School year is considered Sept. 1-June 14, summer June 15-Aug. 31. Complete terms and conditions of this travel offer will arrive with your certificates. The Next Meeting will be on Tuesday, Feb. 25. The agenda will be brainstorming for new ideas for Earth Week and for club activities. There will be free pizza! Also, during the meeting we will discuss the next issue of our newsletter, Facts of Life. If you or someone you know (including professors) is interested in submitting something for the next issue please bring it to this meeting.

Beta Sigma Chi

by Drew Ciok

Since this is our first greek news, we would like to welcome everyone back from Christmas break. Pledging is going great as Rubble, Fudd, Burgis, Mack, and Syd are having fun.

In sports, Beta A basketball rolled over McCoy and Co. of TKE with a 75-20 win. Honors go to Gooses who had a triple double.

Our get-together on Friday night with Theta was great. Enjoy the long weekend!

Bryant Hunger Coalition

by Nicole Cloutier

Sorry we are off to such a slow start. But now it's time to get things rolling. National Hunger Clean-Up Day is on April 11 and we have a lot of work to do before it comes around. At our last meeting, we talked about the sponsor child and setting up more soup kitchens. This semester we are going to need everyone's help. For Hunger Clean-Up Day we need people to be in the following groups: recruitment, publicity and media, work sites and team leaders.

The next meeting will help decide what people are doing for the semester. Meetings for the rest of the semester will be held on Wednesdays at 8:00. Our next meeting is Wednesday Feb. 19 at 8:00 in the Papitto Dining Hall. Hope to see everyone there. We need everyone's help.

Bryant Players

by Lori Nowak

Congratulations to everyone who got a part in the play. Thanks go to Susan and Allen who volunteered to direct our spring production. We are now in search of a person who would like to play the piano for our rehearsals. Everyone watch for our Spring Production in April of BYE-BYE BIRDIE!!! Have fun at rehearsals. Also, keep an eye out for our new and exciting ideas for fundraisers!!

BRYCOL

by Monique Rossignol

BRYCOL would like to announce the Employees of the Month for November/December.

Shawn McGran, a sophomore accounting major from Milford, CT has been chosen at The Country Comfort for his hard work and willingness to fill in at almost any time.

Tuppers' Employee of the Month is Diane Bryzgel of Kensington, CT. She is a junior management major and has been working at Tuppers for a year and a half.

Stephanie Haynes, a senior accounting major from South Williamsport, PA, has been recognized for 3 1/2 years of hard work at the Campus Connection.

Congratulations and thank you to all of you. Keep up the good work!!

BRYCOL would also like to thank all those who donated canned food in December, it was greatly appreciated.

Delta Chi

by Jim Darroch

In the spirit of love and benevolence that symbolizes St. Valentine's Day, let us turn our attention to hockey. B team's play-off aspirations were shattered in a 1-0 loss on Monday night. Nevertheless, A hockey is alive and ready to go against Slapshot. Gumba is back and ready to sack and pillage after two months of studying for the Actuary Exam. Good luck guys!

The past weekend marked the first meeting of the D-Chi Polar Bear Club in Newport. Presently membership is limited to Bri Si and Dupin, see them for more information. Congrats to scholarship award recipients Larry, Mazz, Iggy, Biscuit, and Cruise who is also our Pacifist of the Week. Hang in their pledges! Enjoy the long weekend everyone!

Delta Zeta

by Melissa Swalling

Ackapackapinte! Here's to a great weekend! (Another one is about to begin!) Our Friday afternoon set the pace for the weekend's festivities. Thanks to Probable Cause for entertaining us all!

This weekend we were happy to see our alumni! Thanks Spritz, Ferris, and Candi for everything! We miss you guys. (Spritz-thank you for your "goodies" all will remember it fondly!) Our Saturday gathering on the floor was needed-except you were not supposed to leave until...Good job Steph for a sister's dinner well done! Next time the bill's on you! and "Shari never has a second cup of coffee!"

The seniors kicked off their last 100 days at Bryant at the Wine and Cheese-only 93 days left, let's enjoy! Hopefully some people will enjoy a trip down Madison Ave. soon, but then again, easy come easy go! Congratulations to our new officers-Keaton, Paris, Jade, Carlyle, Monet, Sunkist, Marquis, Evian, Aspen, Esprit, Brewster, Fendi, Mynor, Bali, Vidal, Davee, Siskel, Rizz, and Mitchell! And here's to the outgoing!

Best wishes to all sorority and fraternity pledges-Hang in there it is definitely worth it! Pledge follies was a blast! Thanks to all the pledges! (And sisters!) Well everybody, stop sinking everyone's battleship, and Stick is back! Happy Valentine's Day too-and to all others, it is just another Friday! Happy Birthday Maestro, Carlyle, Avia, and Stoli! Major Houlihan signing off.

Kappa Delta Rho

by Tom Foolery

The pledges spent the weekend in New Jersey getting to know each other better. And now for announcements, Congratulations to Kevin and Terry Pishkin on their engagement, we know you will be happy together.

KDR lost it's last hockey game of the season to DRI last week. It was a great season by all. Mark "Spuds" Bretton finished the season off with some good old Maine sportsmanship when he congratulated the opposing Goalie and the Ref with his stick.

That's the news Ladies and Gentlemen and I am out of here...

Pi Kappa Phi

by Chaz Prokop

First off the brothers would like to welcome and bid farewell to Lee Nichols, our national representative. We had a most joyous time with Lee this past weekend. We enjoyed time with Delta Zeta on Friday and Theta on Saturday. It was also fun for all the brothers who went sledding; especially Axel who looked like a deranged astronaut.

Both B and C team basketball lost their games. B team lost in triple overtime 36-15 and C team looked like a bunch of acrobats on Jolt cola. Quote of the week: "What were you thinking Homezie?"

Phi Kappa Sigma

by Jay Fogarty

I hope everyone had as good a weekend as we did. Kirby's was a good time for those that went. Rolo, Zim and Axl had a good time away for the weekend. Congratulations to Phi Sig Sig on their successful regional conference. We had a great time Saturday night at The Comfort with all the Phi Sig chapters and hope to do it again soon.

A-Team Hoop had yet another awesome game last Thursday with a big, big win against KDR. Their were no stars this week however as everybody had a hand in the triumph, even Rolando, who enthusiastically led the cheers on the sidelines. We look forward to another big game Tuesday against DKE, who are already intimidated by Pleva's tough guy routine on Thursday night.

We'd like to congratulate our pledges for their community service in Providence Sunday and only hope that we can do more in the future.

Student Alumni Association

by Lynda Finn

Hi Everyone!!! We just want to welcome all our new members to SAA. We look forward to your help and hope you have fun. We also would like to thank all our members who attended last Thursday's meeting. Your participation is important to the success of our organization.

Currently, we are working on two projects. They are Senior Supplement and Oozball. All member's help would be appreciated.

We also would like to thank everyone who went to the Business Ethics Seminar on Tuesday, which we helped co-sponsor. We appreciate your support.

This week's meeting is Thursday, February 13, 1992 at 4:30 p.m. in the Alumni House. New members are always welcome. Hope to see you there. Have a Happy Valentine's Day!!!!

SADD

by Tracy Newcombe and Doreen Lee

Spring semester is a good time to be SADD. No, you didn't hear wrong. Spring still is the time to be happy. But it is also the time to join SADD, Students Against Drunk Driving.

Millions of people are killed in drunk driving accidents every year. SADD is a national committee made up of students who are not against drinking, but against drinking-and-driving.

Bryant College is one of the hundreds of colleges and universities which participate in this program. Several meetings are held throughout the semester, along with fundraisers such as Christmas stocking sales and car washes. The money raised is donated to the Kristen Hatch Road Race, as well as to other campus events to warn students of the danger of drinking and driving.

Public Safety Officer and SADD advisor Brad Folsom is a regional educator on the effects of driving drunk. Last semester he sponsored a lecture to teach people what can and does happen when someone drinks and drives. Jennifer Cavalier, one of a dozen students who attended the lecture said, "I was not

A certificate was awarded to everyone who attended.

SADD has been at Bryant for three years and always welcomes new members. The next meeting is tonight, February 13 at 7:00 p.m. in Room 2A at the Bryant Center.

At the meeting, SADD plans to schedule a date for a guest speaker from MADD. Why not be SADD - especially in the spring, the season which is so full of life.

Students who have any questions about SADD or about tonight's meeting, are welcome to contact SADD President Kristine Moynihan, Dorm 9.

SHRM

by Sharie Poulin

Attention SHRM Members!! Last Wednesday, February 5, we held a meeting in Dorm 15 to inform freshmen about our society and what Human Resource Management is all about. The attendance for the meeting wasn't as large as we had hoped. On a positive note, the Executive Board did accomplish a lot of strategic planning for our society's plans and goals during this semester.

Our next meeting will be on Wednesday, February 26 at 7 p.m. in Room 2A of the Bryant Center. Any new members, as well as old, members are always welcome!! Hope to see you there!!!!

Sigma Phi Epsilon

by Derek Fairfield

The Brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon had an eventful week. Friday night the floor was a Ghost town, while brothers headed to Regionals, UConn, and other various destinations. At Regionals the E-board diligently attended all seminars and meetings. They brought back useful information and insight, good job E-board. A few of us stayed with Sig Ep at UConn where we were treated with hospitality and respect. However, Dennis did end up getting lost on the huge campus. Saturday night we wound the long week up with a good time at Theta's floor.

In Sig Ep sports the B-team is 1-1, with Mark "AIR" Alvarez leading the team in scoring. The S-team is on a roll with Bosk and Darren as MVP's. Each ended up with triple doubles, having scored together 49 points, 24 rebounds, and 26 assists. The play of the week goes to Bosk for his break away 360 reverse jam! Way to fly high, little man.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

by Adrienne Hovivian

First, we would like to congratulate Lori, Lea, Jenn, Adrienne, Linda, and Ange on their initiation. After initiation the sisters had a blast at the town house.

Some of the Sigmas headed to URI on Friday night and a great time was had. Shelly and Carolyn are the only people in their right minds! Gabby, who is calling you the "hot tamale"? To Sue, who is Otis!!!!

Good luck to all our pledges and all the other pledges, stay strong, each day you are one step closer. Missing: the hot pot and squeeze! See you next week, Happy Valentines Day, and have a great long weekend!!!

Special Olympics

by Heather K. Calderone and Tracy Markiewicz

The EXCITEMENT has begun. The 1992 Special Olympics Team

is proud to announce that the games are underway. Kick-off for fundraising begins on February 21st at the Country Comfort. Come show your support and remember all proceeds go to Special Olympics.

Students will also have the opportunity to donate a meal on Friday February 28! Tables to sign up will be located in front of Salmonson and South Dining Halls on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 18 and 19. We would like to wish our fundraising team the best of luck and congrats on a positive beginning.

Keep your eyes open in each Archway edition for weekly progress reports and special events planned for the '92 games. We hope to see everyone become a part of the games on May 2, 1992.

Tau Epsilon Phi

by David Delesdernier

Week Three: Reality sets in. No more fun and games boys, this is the big time. But stick with it, it's all worth everything that you put into it in the end. The brothers would also like to wish the new sorority pledges luck with their upcoming weeks of fun.

Alumni weekend was a real good time. It was a lot of fun hanging out and hearing all kinds of stories from our past. Thanks goes to Igor for organizing the weekend and pulling the whole thing off.

In sports, TEP basketball is hot! TEP A defeated DX, TEP B beat both Sig Ep and KDR, and TEP C destroyed Sig Ep's S team. It is still early in the season, but the boys are lookin' good. To rap things up, Wally's weekly words of wisdom are "Everybody who is anybody is doing it."

Theta Phi Alpha

by Tara Reilly

Greetings and Salutations! First off, we continue to welcome KT on our floor. It's always an adventure. On Friday we saw a side of Beta we have never seen. Although things were under complete control at first, things definitely changed by the end of the night. Saturday night had the potential of being a fantastic gathering. The new and improved Zube Tube is Theta's newest edition and we welcome all to experience it. Hang in there pledges! Lata Theta...

Men's Basketball 1-1 Last Week

Glenn Tatro graps a rebound as Jack Newbauer(23) looks on.

Brenda Milley
Archway Sports Writer

The men's basketball team split their games last week, defeating the Bentley Falcons 14-5, but losing to Quinnipiac 97-92.

Against Quinnipiac on Saturday, Bryant was up by 10 in the second half. However, Quinnipiac made 80% of their free throws and 56% of their field goals, to pull off the win.

Coach Reilly attributed the following factors to their opponents success:

"Quinnipiac added an extra shooter and an extra passer to their line-up. They had three excellent guards who all shot the ball very well."

"We [Bryant] got in foul trouble in the second half. Another thing that hurt us was Colin Lawson's injury." Lawson left the game with a "bruise on his thigh." It was yet to be determined whether or not he would play against St. Michael's on Wednesday.

Bryant had several scorers in double figures: Glenn Tatro with 24 and C.J. Simmons with 21. Dave Burrows and Rich Rose contributed 15 and 13 points, respectively.

Quinnipiac's starting forward, Mike Buscetto had 24 points and his teammate David Haver had 23. The more successful part of last week's schedule was the win over Bryant's rival Bentley College. "The Bentley game was a big win against an experienced veteran team," coach Reilly said.

During the game, senior center Rich Rose earned his name in Bryant's 1000 point club. He scored eight points to reach his 1,000th point before fouling out of the game.

Bryant was down 13 at the half, and came back in the second to out-score Bentley 35-27.

"We relied on the offensive efforts of Glenn Tatro and his key 'set-ups' for his teammates," coach Reilly added.

"C.J. Simmons hit a shot with 30 seconds left," he added. This was the shot Bryant needed to win.

Tatro scored 16 points and Simmons had 10 to help Bryant overcome Bentley. The Indians played St. Michael's last night but it was too late for this edition.

The men's team hopes to better their 3-18 record when they host Assumption College on Saturday at 3:30 and travel to St. Anselm's on Wednesday at 7:30. The men's alumni will play Saturday at 11:00.

Racquetball Team Defeats Clarkson

by John Gillooly
Dublin University, Ireland

The Bryant College Racquetball Team traveled to upstate New York this past weekend in its quest to overwhelm the Clarkson University Team at Potsdam, NY. By a match score of 18-2, Clarkson had no chance as they were overpowered by a charged Bryant team, who was rebounding from last week's loss to Penn State.

The men's team was led by #1 Jesse Albright whose opponent was often seen talking to himself, the ball, and his racquet as he had no chance in the match. Number four John Powers and freshman Derek Gonda, playing at the #5 position, overwhelmed their opponents in straight sets, while #2 Jason Hurst and #3 Paul Martin were forced into tiebreaking matches in which both Bryant players prevailed. Number six Michael LaPlante, who was down in the first match 9-1, battled back to win in straight sets. The only men's loss came at the expense of #8 Brett Dennett, whose loss was a tough one.

The highlight of the tournament was the men's #7 match where Dan Anter collected his first collegiate win after losing his first game, but battling back to win the match.

The Bryant men's team continued its court mastery in doubles by going undefeated with wins posted by the teams of Jesse Albright/Derek Gonda, Jason Hurst/Mike LaPlante, and Paul Martin/John Powers.

The women, who also only lost one match, were led by Bobbi-Jo Bell, Erin O'Connell, Tricia Colozzo, Sue Donatelli, and Maria Acompora. The only loss came in the women's #1 doubles spot as the team of Sue Donatelli/Maria Acompora lost 5-15, 13-15.

The match was the biggest win of the year and improves the team's record to 2-3 in the ECRC with five matches remaining. Bryant will play at a tri-team meet this coming weekend at Binghamton, NY against SUNY Binghamton, Marist College, and SUNY Plattsburg.

The men's golf team receives their Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference championship banner in a half time ceremony Wednesday night.

Basketball Player Reaches Milestone

Richie Rose Joins 1,000 Point Club

Angelo Corradino
and Katie Pettig
Archway Sports Writers

Richard Rose became the 21st member of the Bryant Elite Men's Basketball Club on February 5th, when he scored his 1,000th point during the game against Bentley.

Rose joins his teammate C.J. Simmons who got his 1,000th point earlier in the season.

"No, there was never any competition between us," Rose said in reference to Simmons. "When we stepped into the gym for the first time together, we knew in three years we would be in the spotlight."

Rose and Simmons motivated each other. "We were always on each others back. The past three years have been tough; we need the motivation," Rose said.

This was a personal goal for Rose: "I wanted to get 1,000 points and 500 rebounds. I have accomplished both."

Rose, originally from Boston, started playing basketball in second grade when his father got him interested in the game.

In a pre-game ceremony on Saturday, Rose was presented with a ball to commemorate his induction into the club. He then ran into the stands and gave the ball to his dad.

"He has been my biggest supporter, I owe a lot to him."

Rose sees progress in the future for the Bryant team.

The 1,000 Point Club

Bryant's Basketball Program recently added three members to the 1,000 point club. Rich Rose, C.J. Simmons, and Holly Grinnell have all scored their 1000th point this season. Here is the remainder of the club.

"Our goal is to get into the play-offs because we haven't been there in a while and anything can happen in the play-offs," Rose stated.

"As of late, we have been playing well. We struggled at the beginning because we had a tough schedule. I think we can make the play-offs if we continue to play hard," he added.

When asked what he would like to improve upon, Rose stated, "Nothing about my game really, the team is more important. We need a couple of more wins. I just go out there every day and try to improve."

Rose's hard work and hard play, has helped the team and provided an example for others to follow.

Athlete OF THE WEEK

Richard Rose

This week's athlete of the week is Richard Rose of the men's basketball team. Rose became the 21st member of the 1,000 point club with eight points in a 68-67 win over Bentley last Wednesday. He said "We need a couple more wins. I just go in everyday and try to improve and help my teammates."

Women's Basketball Drop Two

Angelo Corradino
Archway Sports Writer

The women's basketball team lost two NE-10 conference games this week dropping their record to 8-13.

Bryant hosted Quinnipiac Saturday, losing 65-64. The team was behind by as much as 14 before the late second half rally, which ultimately fell short.

High scorers for the game were Holly Grinnell with 18, Bridget Casey 15, Heather Houle 12, and Kelly Jacob 11 points. Grinnell and Houle also combined for 14 boards, eight and six respectively.

"The kids played great in the second half," coach Mary Burke said.

"It's the first half we have to work on; we need to play better."

Last Wednesday the team went on the road to face Bentley, which is currently ranked second in the country, and lost 89-66.

High scorers in that game were Grinnell with 28 and Houle 19. Grinnell and Jennifer Spencer also combined for 27 rebounds, 15 and 12 respectively.

"We were real tight the first half. We were down by 17," coach Burke said. "We played up to our potential in the second half and came within eight before Bentley turned the defense up a notch."

"It was tough. Bentley is number 2 in the nation and known for their defense," Burke added.

Injuries have been a big problem for the team this year. "I'm only playing with eight [players]. The players are on the court for 35 minutes or more while other teams have 15 people on the bench," coach Burke stated.

"The players are tired but we did a lot of pre-season conditioning that has saved us," she added.

The team played St. Michael's last night, but the game was too late for this edition. The Lady Indians will host Assumption on Saturday at 1:30 then travel to St. Anselm's on Wednesday.

Holly Grinnell (13) goes up for a jump shot in a 65-64 loss to Quinnipiac on Saturday.

Coach Ferreira Honored by RI Sports Casters and Writers

Angelo Corradino
Archway Sports Writer

Head women's volleyball coach Karen Ferreira will receive the 1991 Words Unlimited Female Sports Coach of the Year on February 23rd.

This award is given by the Rhode Island Sports Writers and Sports Casters and includes both collegiate and professional sports.

"It is great competition. I feel honored to win this award," Ferreira said.

Ferreira, although proud, was surprised to win the award. "Actually I was pretty much in shock. I had heard about this award and never given it a thought. I didn't expect to win."

This award means more than personal satisfaction to Ferreira. "Basically the award will not benefit me personally. The girls will be much prouder of their season," Ferreira added.

"Awards like this make us more prestigious to recruits. Athletes in the RI and Southern Mass. area who hear of this award might be enticed to come here."

Ferreira will top off her list of accomplishments this year by marrying her fiancé, Chris Mendes on April 10th.

"He [Chris] has been my biggest supporter this season. It's tough with the hectic schedule in the fall. I would be coming home at 11:00 three days a week, but he was always there for me," Ferreira said.

"Once again, I am extremely pleased to win this award and, if it carries over, the girls can increase their self-esteem," Ferreira concluded.
